clint barton, alias

hawkeye

se convirtió en el más grande tirador conocido por el hombre.
entonces se unió a los avengers.
esto es lo que hace cuando no hace eso.
vive en un edificio.
unos tipos malos quieren el edificio.
han enfrentado, vencido, hecho sangrar, y dejado sordo a clint.
ahora clint y su hermano
-- el otro más grande tirador conocido por el hombre-- y sus vecinos
-- tan solo son simples vecinos-- se han atrincherado
y están listos
para el infierno a punto de desatarse.

además: el mejor amigo de clint, el perro Lucky, y su protegida kate -- la otra más grande tirador conocido por el hombre-- lo abandonaron porque es una mierda humana.

Hey Hawk-Guys! It's Sana "MiniB" Amanat here, editor of the Hawk-Crew and all around semi-okay human being. I know all of you are breathing a huge sigh of relief because what you hold in your hands is a REAL LIVE ISSUE OF HAWKEYE 21. That's right, this was not a trick we have given you what you've been waiting for, and it only took us like a few extra months to get it to you! But the best things in life take time to come together, am I right? Like diamonds and a really amazing Thanksgiving turkey! So with that same level of preciousness & deliciousness, we bring you the penultimate issue of Hawkeye by Matt Fraction and David Aja.

It saddens me to write that. While the Hawkeye saga will continue, Fraction and Aja have decided to aim their arrows in another direction. They've told their Hawkeye tale and have graciously passed the bow to the very talented team of Jeff Lemire and Ramon Perez. Jeff and Ramon will continue in the spirit of what's come before but through their own distinctive lens. We will continue the next chapter in Hawkeye's life in March 2015.

But before that, Clint has work to do. And he's got one more issue left to GET. IT. HANDLED.

Now, on to your letters!

Dear Team Hawkeye,
I love every aspect of this book with every fiber of my being.

When I heard that Hawkeye was ending, I had a Luke Skywalker Empire Strikes Back moment. I was devastated. Hawkeye is by far my favorite title on my pull list -- and I also read bigger names such as The Amazing Spider-Man. There is just something extremely special about this book to me. I lived in denial of its end until recently. Once I finally came to terms with the fact that it is ending, I knew I had to make sure you all knew how much this book means to me. I don't know from experience what it takes to create a comic book. However, I am a theatre major who has been involved in musicals and marching band. I know how much passion, time, energy, dedication, and love it takes to create art. This book is nothing less than a work of art. I have read other comic books that I have enjoyed, but there are few that I would consider to be more than entertainment. Hawkeye is definitely among those few. I have the first print of every issue because it has been on my pull list from the beginning. I have read the first issue multiple times -- to the point where I bought the first trade because I was afraid I'd wear out my comic. I know this is a book I will come back to re-read time and time again. Your collective creation made me fall in love with the characters. Clint Barton in particular is now one of my all time favorite characters because of this book. Your version of Hawkguy is now the standard by which I will judge every portrayal of him from this point on. Thank you all so much for your investment in Hawkeye! It has been an amazing two-year journey, and I look forward to seeing what art you create next!

Sincerely,
Jamie Lee

Jamie, thanks for all the love! I know Matt and David are probably blushing reading this letter. I totally agree, this series is a feat in itself and, in my humble opinion, will go down in comics history as one of the greatest! Although I'm not sure what you're referring to when you say "bigger name titles" like "Amazing Spider-Man". What does Nick Lowe know about making comics? PFFFT.

Hello Team Hawkguy!
I had to write because for weeks I've tried to ignore the Internet rumblings and even your own tweets hinting at the end of this Hawkeye run. I've been in denial hoping they were just rumors, but now that I've seen references to the "f-word" (finale!) and noticed Hawkeye's not in the previews catalog, I must sadly admit that it might really be the end. I'm still holding out hope that it's not, but I'd be remiss if I let you conclude the series without telling you how much I love it and will sorely miss it if you do end the series.

I grew up on books and '90's superhero cartoons, but I didn't discover graphic novels until college and didn't fall for comics until recently. But your book hooked me from the first page of the first issue with Clint's honesty, good heart, and self-depricating humor. I read the first five issues in the trade, borrowed from my local library--I've always been a library kid and they keep a healthy stock of comics!--and since then I've been reading it regularly. This is the first comic I ever went out to purchase and looked forward to every month-ish. It's gotten me through some challenging times when escapism and humor was in dire need.

I really enjoy your reframing of Clint in his purple Chuck Taylors with another Hawkeye and Pizza Dog alongside to keep him grounded. He stumbles in his own life frequently, and even in his own superheroing, but still his heart is in the right place. Bumbling, stubborn, awkward at times, and rough around the edges, he'll still try to help you out if you're in a bind. I connect with superheroes not just because they can do things I can't do, but because they make the choices I hope I would make if forced into the same tough situations. I've found this in your book.

Thank you also for including a fierce female character in Kate, who can go toe-to-toe with Clint any time, and for doing an excellent job depicting their relationship with Lucky. He reminds me of my dog, Oxford, who I'm sure would eat pizza and solve crimes if I gave him the chance.

Cheers to all of you for your excellent work. Thank you for bringing something new, authentic, and fun to the table. I'll never look at my purple Chuck Taylors the same way again!

Very sincerely,
Kamillah & Oxford

Kamillah, thanks for writing in and for the kind words! Sadly, yes, the current Hawkeye series will be ending with the next issue. While I know we are all very disappointed to see Matt and David go, Hawkeye is here to stay, he'll just be on a whole new journey—one I think you'll be very happy with.

And with that, Hawk-Cats, it's time to leave you, but not without the Official David Aja Hawk-Jams Playlist:

-Hot Pants Road (The J.B.'s).
-Blessed Blackness (The J.B.'s).
-Son Of Shaft (The Bar-Kays).
-Ulla et Georgie (Jean-Pierre Mirouze).
-The Grunt (The J.B.'s).
-Don't look Back (Brian Eno).
-Page 20 (Fantomas).
-Requiem: IV Lacrimosa (György Ligeti).
-Every Dog has His Day (Sippie Wallace).

Stay sharp,
SANA
